Quite a smoky wine (also from a hint of new wood). A generous body with dried pear fruit, some tannins and a crisp acidity. Drink now. Screw cap.

This is an extremely flexible food wine that tastes like champagne without the bubbles. An interesting combination of delicate berry fruits and a hint of smoke in the nose, then a medium-full juicy palate with a clean, long finish. Drink now. Screw cap.

The dried pear and fresh citrus notes are not so unusual for pinot blanc, nor is 13% alcohol, but the sleekness and crispness of this wine make it stand out from the pack. A long, clean and rather mineral finish. Drink now. Screw cap.

Juicy and open with a lot of smoky character as well as citrusy charm this is an easy dry riesling to enjoy now. From vineyards growing on stony melaphyre soil. Screw cap.

This strikingly racy and mineral dry riesling is a classic Nahe wine. Medium-bodied with a crisp lemony acidity that's already very well integrated. Great value for money. Drink or hold. Screw cap.

It's hard to resist the juicy fruit and spring-like freshness. More apple and lemon than peach, but also a hint of exotic fruits. A very practical food wine that you can drink or hold. Screw cap.

At once smoky and honeyed this is a massive ice wine with a ton of exotic fruit and just as much acidity. The finish packs a huge punch, but the wine remains outrageously bright and lively. Drink or hold for at least a couple of decades.

Right out of the gate this is a smoky mid-weight dry riesling that's impressively expressive with plenty of white peach and citrus notes. Then comes the dramatic finish where tannins, minerals and acidity combine to make a bold statement. Drink or hold. Screw cap.

A lovely juicy wine with a wide spectrum of stone fruit aromas, herbal freshness, and just a hint of funk (from wild ferment). Only medium-dry and therefore a great wine for spicy East Asian dishes. Drink or hold. Screw cap.

This amazing dry wine might be too concentrated and mineral for some people, but it has such beautiful balance it takes my breathe away. The super-long finish doesn't want to ever let you go! Drink or hold.

Still rather funky (from a wild ferment, which the Germans call Sponti) on the nose, but on the palate this is packed with white peach, citrus and honeysuckle. A mouth-watering finish with enough mineral acidity to carry this for at least another decade! Technically it's medium-sweet but where is that kimchi?

A sex bomb dry riesling that's impossible to resist. A lot of power, but it's the fabulous fruit and erotic succulence on the palate that really grab you. Super-polished long finish. Drink or hold.

How does this wine manage to simultaneously be so extravagant and delicate? Lots of pineapple and not just the aroma, also the acidity! Really long and filigree finish that's dry enough to make you want more of the succulence it begins with. Drink or hold.

All the exotic fruits of the world seem gathered together here and the acidity cuts through all the luscious sweetness like a samurai sword with unwavering decisiveness. You could pull the cork right away, but this has the potential to age as long as most of us will live.
